

CONTENTS.

THE KURUK-TAGH AND THE KURUK-DARJA.

	Page
Chapter I. From the Kontsche-darja to the foot of the Kuruk-tagh	3.
» II. The Kuruk-tagh and Jing-pen	19.
» III. The Kuruk-darja and the country south of the Kuruk-tagh	43.
» IV. Across the Jardang desert to Altmisch-bulak	58.
» V. Grum-Grschimajlo's journey across the mountains north of Kuruk-tagh . .	74.
» VI. Kosloff on the western Kuruk-tagh	85.
» VII. Roborovskij, Prschevalskij and Futterer on the Kuruk-tagh	93.
» VIII. The author's own journey in the Kuruk-tagh	104.

KARA-KOSCHUN.

Chapter IX. The waters to the north of the Kara-koschun	125.
» X. North and south waterways of the Kara-koschun	135.
» XI. Volumes of the Tarim, Jurt-tschapghan and Kum-tschapghan	151.
» XII. A newly discovered lake north of Kara-koschun. — Eastern and southern shores of Kara-koschun	165.
» XIII. The waters on the north of the Kara-koschun	177.
» XIV. Hydrographical relations on the north of the Kara-koschun	191.
» XV. General conclusions regarding the Kara-koschun	203.

THE DESERT OF LOP.

Chapter XVI. Across the desert from Altmisch-bulak	221.
» XVII. Surveying the desert	234.

THE LOP-NOR PROBLEM.

Chapter XVIII. The Lop-nor problem. — Richthofen and Prschevalskij	257.
» XIX. The Lop-nor — Kosloff and the author	268.
» XX. The Lop-nor region on the Wu-tschang-fu map	281.
» XXI. Author's reply to Kosloff's criticisms. Krapotkin, Grenard	298.
» XXII. Analysis of author's survey of the desert	314.
» XXIII. General hydrographical relations of the Tarim deltaic region	330.
» XXIV. Factors tending to decrease the volume of the Tarim — Migrations of the Lop-nor	353.
» XXV. Comparison between the Tarim and other Central Asian basins	369.