

CONTENTS

Preface.

List of Contents.

Part I. Introduction.

Chapter I. Hydrographic Changes of Lob Nor and the Shifting of Sand-Dunes.	1-21
1. The Derivation of Names and Location of Lob Nor.	1-3
2. The History of Exploration of Hydrographic Changes of Lob Nor.	3-4
3. The Tentative Determination of the Dates of Hydrographic Changes.	4-10
4. The Shifting of Sand-Dunes near Lob Nor.	10-13
5. Supplementary Remarks on the Early Hypotheses on the Source of Yellow River.	13-21

Figure 1. Lob Nor Today after the Return to Its Old Site.

Figure 2. The Tentative Restoration of the Changes of Lob Nor after the Wei and Chin Dynasties.

Figure 3. The Tentative Restoration of Pu-Chang Hai during the T'ang Dynasty.

Figure 4. The Conditions of Lob Nor in the Early Ch'ing Dynasty.

Chapter II. A Brief History of the Lou-Lan Kingdom.	22-38
1. The Rise and Zenith of Power of Shan-Shan.	22-25
2. The Revival of the Old Site of Lou-Lan and Its Final Abandonment.	25-27
3. The Relation between Shan-Shan and China and the Decline of Shan-Shan.	27-28
Attached: Addendum Remarks on the Site of the Capital of Lou-Lan and Shan-Shan.	28-31
4. The Invasion of T'u-Yü-Huen and the establishment of the Chinese in the Sui and T'ang Dynasties.	31-33
5. The Eastward Penetration of Kang-Yen-Tien and the Invasion of T'u-Fan.	33-35
6. The Ruination of the Lob Region and the Postal Stations of Lob.	36-37
7. The Establishment of Hsien (County) Magistracy in the Ch'ing Dynasty.	37-38

Chapter III. The Position of Lou-Lan and Shan-Shan in the Communication between China and the West.	39-53
1. The Northern, the Southern and the New Routes during the Han, Wei, and Chin Dynasties.	39-44
2. The Route through T'u-Yü-Huen during Northern Wei, Sui and T'ang Times.	44-47
3. The Kao-Chang Route of the Sung, and the Great Northern and the Southern Routes of the Yüan Dynasties.	47-51
4. The Route through Chia-Yü-Kuan during Ming and Ch'ing Times.	51-53
Figure 5. Map Showing the Different Routes of Communication.	