

- bombacina* : (carta.) it was a ready-made term meaning « paper ».
See COTTON, p. 428.
- « bombacis » : (« goton, id est... ») in the region of the lower Yang-tzü, Odoric heard a tale of Pygmies who could do the best in the world.
See COTTON, p. 528.
- bombacium* : Lat., « cotton ».
See COTTON, p. 427.
- bombasin* : French (originally adjectival), « cotton ».
See COTTON, p. 427.
- bombasine* : Engl., « cotton ».
See COTTON, p. 427.
- bombax* : Lat., « cotton ».
It is now the botanical name of the silk-cotton tree.
See COTTON, p. 427.
- « bombax » : (« bumbatium » or « bonbix ») this is the word generally used for cotton in Polo's mss. in Latin.
See COTTON, p. 427.
- « bombax » : (« cloth of... ») the term is misleading.
See COTTON, p. 427.
- Bombax* : there is no indication that the Chinese used its floss for making any cloth.
See COTTON, p. 429.
- Bombax* : silk-cotton tree; there is only one kind of it in Asia, the Bombax malabaricum.
See COTTON, p. 429.
- Bombax ceiba* : one of the words used for the Bombax by recent botanists.
See COTTON, p. 429.
- Bombax malabaricum* : this is the common name for the kind of Bombax in Asia; a confusion has been made by Chinese scholars with the Gossypium arboreum; the designation always adopted for it is « silk-cotton tree ».
See COTTON, p. 429.
- Bombax pentandrum* : one of the words used for the Bombax by recent botanists.
See COTTON, p. 429.
- « Bombay » : (« cloth of... ») the term is misleading.
See COTTON, p. 427.
- bombicis* : the opera goton, id est... (Odoric).
See COTTON, p. 428.
- bombicis* : (cartae.) for the Chinese paper-money by Odoric; it was a ready-made term meaning « paper ».
See COTTON, p. 428.
- « bombicis » : var. of Odoric's « bombacis » (« goton, id est... »).
See COTTON, p. 528.
- bonbecium* : (Codex Cumanicus) « cotton », mistaken as meaning « silkworm ».
See COTTON, p. 428.
- « bonbix » : this word is the result of a confusion with Greek. βόμβυξ, « cocoon of the silkworm ».
See COTTON, p. 427.
- « bonbix » : (« bumbatium » or « bombax ») this is the word generally used for cotton in Polo's mss. in Latin.
See COTTON, p. 427.
- BONDOCDAIRE.
Zāhiz Ruknu-'d-Dīn Bāibars al Bunduqdārī, the fourth of the Mamluk Sultans.
See p. 99-101.
- bongies* : erroneously for boegies and bougies, Dutch plur. < Span. bucio.
See COWRIES, p. 555.
- bonito* : it is the « cobyli mash »; « black bonito fish », in Maldivian.
See CAPDOILLE, p. 160.
- « bonnaret » : this is a mistake for boranetz.
See COTTON, p. 525.
- BONUS.
— The « bonus » of F;
— it is « ebony »;
— the word was fairly known in the Middle Ages.
See p. 101-102.
- « Book of Alexandre » : the Lone Tree is called the Dry Tree in this work.
See DRY(LONE) TREE, p. 631.
- « boquerannus » : low Latin form.
See BUCKRAM, p. 111.
- « boquerant » : old French form for « bougran ».
See BUCKRAM, p. 111.
- « Borak » : in Blochet for Baraq.
See BARAC, p. 75.
- « borametz » : (of Tartary) the Talmudic texts on the yedua had been adduced c. 1600 in connection with it.
See COTTON, p. 524.
- « borametz » : this is an alteration, in Scaliger, of Herberstein's « boranetz ».
See COTTON, p. 525.
- boran*, baran : « sheep », occurs, in this form in old Russian texts.
See COTTON, p. 525.
- « boranetz » : (i. e. « lamb ») Herberstein meant the word baranec, a diminutive form of baran; he attributed to the Tartars the Russian designation used by Dmitrii Daniilovič.
See COTTON, p. 524.
- « borgal » : or « bourgal ».
See BOLGARA, p. 99.
- « borgal » : or « bourgal ».
See CAMUT, p. 156.
- « Borgar » : in the Catalan Map, for Bulyār.
See BOLGARA, p. 99.
- borγāli* : or burγāli, for bulyārī, Russian leather.
See BOLGARA, p. 99.
- Borneo : (the « Chien-yang chin » was exported to).
See CAMOCAS, p. 149.
- Boro-čayān?* : « Grey-white », Pulo-ch'a-han in YS.
See CINGHIS, p. 322.
- Boro-qoni* : « Grey Sheep », Po-lo-huo-ni in YS.
See CINGHIS, p. 322.
- « borometz » : Bauhin speaks in the same chapter of that and of the Odoric-Maundeville tale.
See COTTON, p. 525.
- « borometz seu barannetz » : according to Kaempfer, this is the astrakhan.
See COTTON, p. 526.
- « Boronietz (Boranits) » : in a paragraph « De Agno Scyticā, seu fructu... » Witsen implies that it is astrakhan.
See COTTON, p. 526.
- Borsūn Qal'āsī* : the ancient Gargar.
See BARSAMO, p. 82.
- boso* : Manchu, borrowed from Uighur bōz, « cotton goods ».
See COTTON, p. 434.
- « Bostam » : so written in our maps; more anciently Bastām or Bis-ṭām. Yule noticed the mention of a « dry tree » (diraht-i hušk) said to have been the staff of Mahomet.
See DRY(LONE) TREE, p. 630.
- boucassin* : (Fr.).
See BUCKRAM, p. 112.
- « bougarassin » : used once c. 1400 in the sense of « boucassin ».
See BUCKRAM, p. 112.
- bouge* : French, < Span. bucio.
See COWRIES, p. 555.