

- Dīva- : (the Maldives) goes back to Skr. dvīpa, Pali dīpa.
See COWRIES, p. 559.
- Dīwa-Kawḍah : « Cowry Islands », name of the Maldives in Al-Birūnī.
See COWRIES, p. 532.
- « Dīwah-maḥal » : in Abdu-'r-Raz-zāq, the Maldives.
See COWRIES, p. 559.
- « Djabanka » : this correction of Kāšyari's Jābarqā and the identification with Jih-pên-kuo is not satisfactory.
See ČIPINGU, p. 609.
- « djambalā » : this restitution of shan-p'o-lo is wrong.
See COTTON, p. 468.
- « Djaout-kodi » : misreading of the title given to Tāmūjin occurring in Rašid.
See CINGHIS, p. 292.
- djerme* : (and germe) French form.
See ČERME, p. 606.
- « Djessam » : hypothesis for the name read as Hāinam in Rašid.
See CHEYNAM, p. 243.
- Dju-gubu.
See FEMELES (ISLAND OF WOMEN), p. 690.
- « Djurtchen » : (i.e. Jurčen) this form is more satisfactory than « Jučen ».
See CIORCIA, p. 368.
- Dmitrii Daniilovič : this is the man who informed Herberstein about the « boranetz ».
See COTTON, p. 524.
- « Doa » : (the name of Dua was known in the West as).
See CAIDU, p. 129.
- « Dofar » : the name « Dhofar » in Barbosa.
See DUFAR, p. 637.
- « Dogana » : previous reading of Dogava. Entered on Lentz's map as the name of the whole valley between Balkh and Tāli-qān.
See DOGAVA, p. 626-627.
- dogāna* : persian « double », suggested by Penzer on the assumption that it was a double district.
See DOGAVA, p. 627.
- Dogaua (or « Dogana ») : the context as well as geographical conditions are against the existence of such a country, twelve days of Balkh. It must be an Idolum libri, which is probably due to a corruption of an original « detaicā » = « de Taican ».
See DOGAVA, p. 627.
- DOGAVA.
This « name » has been hitherto read « Dogana », has given rise to much speculation.
See p. 626-627.
- Doḥsās : the last part of the name could be identified with As.
See ALAINS, p. 17.
- Dolon-nōr : or Lama-miao.
See BARSCOL, p. 84.
- Dolōn-nōr : the ruins of K'ai-p'ing-fu, Shangtu, still exist in this region, north of the Luan river; the locality called to-day by this name is south of the river.
See CIANDU, p. 256.
- Dolōn-nōr : (Polo's « Ciandu ») the location of the « Tas-ola » between it and the Kerulen is most vague.
See CINGHIS, p. 360.
- DOMAS.
Damascus (Dimišq and Dimišq).
Written « Dimiški » (or « Dimišgi ») in a Mongol letter sent by Arjun to Philip the Fair.
« Dimišgi » is transcribed Ti-mi-shih-chi in the Chinese map of circa 1330.
A Ming document only writes Ti-mi-shih.
See p. 627.
- « domaschino » : sugar, in Uzzano.
See DOMAS, p. 627.
- domesce* : « cultivated ».
See BRAZIL, p. 104.
- « dommaschino » : reading of « donmaschino ».
See DOMAS, p. 627.
- « Dommasco » : in Pegolotti.
See DOMAS, p. 627.
- Don : (bounds of the Alain's territory).
See ALAINS, p. 16.
- « donmaschino » : (read « dommaschino ») a sugar in Pegolotti.
See DOMAS, p. 627.
- Dorji : (Tib. rDo-rje) name of Qubilai's eldest son.
See CINCHIM, p. 280.
- Dorji : one of the four sons of Čabui.
See CUBLAI, p. 568.
- Dorji : first son of Qubilai.
See CUBLAI, p. 569.
- « Doumas » : occurs with « Domas » in the Gestes des Chiprois.
See DOMAS, p. 627.
- *Dōwač Salī = Tōγāč Salī : probably the Uighur Tao-wa-ch'ih Sa-li.
See CATAI, p. 217.
- Dōrbājin : this was the mother of Hügāči.
See COGACIN, p. 394.
- Dōrbājin : mother of Hügāči or Oγruqči.
See CUBLAI, p. 568.
- Dōrbājin : this is To-pai-chên in YS.
See CINGHIS, p. 320.
- Dōrbān : the tribe of Dōrbājin.
See CUBLAI, p. 568.
- Dōrmagāi : equated correctly to the Ling-chou of the Secret History and to the « Turmegei » of Schmidt. Seems to be Mongolian.
See EGRIGAIA, p. 642.
- dormägäi* : this word occurs in the Secret History with the translation hsia-têng, « inferior », « low class ».
See EGRIGAIA, p. 642.
- Dōrmagāi : (Ling-chou) besieged and burnt by Chinghiz in Rašid's account.
See CINGHIS, p. 315.
- Dōrmagāi : according to the Secret History, Chinghiz laid siege to it after having spent the summer at Časutu.
See CINGHIS, p. 316.
- Dōrmagāi : (= Ling-chou) « Sanang Setsen » places there the death of Chinghiz-khan.
See CINGHIS, p. 343.
- Dōrmagāi : named in the Secret History with the correct equivalence Ling-chou. This is the « Turmegei » of Schmidt, 508. Misread « Deresgai », « Derssekai » in Y, I, 281, and « Derssekai » in Ber, III, 95.
See EGRIGAIA, p. 642.
- Dōrmagāi : native name of Ling-chou.
See SILINGIU, p. 833.
- dörmkē* : according to Ramsstedt « violent », « excited »; written Mong. dörümkäi*.
See EGRIGAIA, p. 642.
- dörümkäi* : Mong. form of dörmkē, « violent », « excited ».
See EGRIGAIA, p. 642.
- « dracunculus » : (i.e. « dragon's blood ») it is an error to say that Bauhin made the former vegetable lamb to be that.
See COTTON, p. 525.