

corsairs, but live by trade and industry as honest people ought. It is a place of very great trade. They are forsooth cruel Idolaters.¹

"The Gates of Somnath," as preserved in the British Arsenal at Agra, from a photograph (converted into elevation).