No.	LOCALITIES.	INDICATIONS.	LANGUAGE.	DESCRIPTION OF MSS.	AUTHORITIES.
82	PRAGUE . . .	Chapter of St. Vitus . . .	Latin . . .	AUSTRIA.  Pipino's.	Pertz, Archiv. , ix. 474.
83	VIENNA . . .	. . . . .	German? . . .	There appears to be a MS. at Vienna; for above I have registered (No. 77) one at Berlin, which is called a copy of the Vienna MS., but I have not been able to get any particulars regarding it.  SWEDEN.
84	STOCKHOLM . . .	Royal Library, French, No. 37	French . . .	This MS., published in facsimile by Baron A. E. Nordenskiöld, belongs to the "Cepoy" type of MSS. Yule wrote in The Athenæum (17th June, 1882): "I gather that it has been produced by partial abridgment from one of the earlier MSS. of the type in question." And again (p. 766): "It will be seen that though the publication is a beautiful example of facsimile, it contributes, as far as I have been able to examine it, nothing to the amelioration or elucidation of the text or narrative." The changes and suppressions are much less considerable than in the Paris MSS., 5631	H. Cordier.
