

THE NUMBERS & CONTENTS OF THE CHAPTERS \neq MARCO POLO

68.	Here he tells of the great battle which was between Prester Johan and Cinghis Kaan. (lxvii;lxvii) - - - - -	166
69.	Here he tells of the Can who rule after the death of Cinghis Kaan. (lxviii;lxviii) - - - - -	167
70.	Here he tells of the God of the Tartars and of their religion. (lxviii;lxviii) - - - - -	170
71.	Here he tells of the plain of Bargu and of the strange customs of the people. (lxx;lxx) - - - - -	177
72.	Here he tells of the great kingdom of Ergiuul (?). (lxxi;lxxi) -	178
73.	Here he tells of the realm of the province of Egrigaia. (lxxii;lxxii)	181
74.	Here he tells of the great province of Tenduc. (lxxiii;lxxiii) -	181
75. [2a]	Here he tells of the city of Ciandu and of a wonderful palace of the great Kaan. (lxxiiii;lxxiiii) - - - - -	185
76.	Here he tells of all the deeds of the great Kaan who now reigns who is called Cublai Kaan and tells how he holds court and how he maintains his people in great justice and again he speaks of his conquest. (lxxv;—) - - - - -	192
77.	Here he tells of the great battle which was between the great Kaan and the king Naian his uncle. (lxxvi;lxxvi) - - - - -	192
78.	How the great Kaan goes to meet Naian. (lxxvii;—) - - - - -	194
79.	Here he begins about the battle of the great Kaan and of Naian his uncle. (lxxviii;—) - - - - -	196
80.	How the great Kaan made them kill Naian. (lxxviii;lxxviii) -	199
81.	How the great Kaan returns to the city of Cambaluc. (lxxx;lxxx?) -	201
82.	Here he tells the fashion of the great Kaan. (lxxx;lxxx) - - - - -	204
83.	Here he tells of the sons of the great Kaan. (— ; lxxxii) - - - - -	206
84.	Here he tells of the palace of the great Kaan. (lxxxii;lxxxiii) -	207
85.	Here he tells of the palace of the son of the Kaan who must reign after him. (lxxxiii;—) - - - - -	211
R	Of the treachery planned to make the city of Cambaluc rebel, and how the authors were taken and put to death. Lib. II, Cap. 8. - - - - -	214
86.	How the great Kaan has himself guarded by 12000 horsemen. (lxxxiiii;lxxxiiii) - - - - -	216
87.	Here he tells of the great feast which the great Kaan makes of his birthday. (lxxxv;lxxxv) - - - - -	220
88.	Once more about the feast which the Kaan makes of his same birth- day. (lxxxvi, lxxxvii;lxxxvi) - - - - -	221