

THE DESCRIPTION OF THE WORLD<sup>s</sup> THE TABLE OF CHAPTERS

205.	How the barons answered to Argon. (CCvii;CCvi) - - -	460
206.	How Argon sends his messengers to Acmat. (CCviii;CCvii) -	461
207. [3c]	How Acmat replied to the messengers of Argon. (CCviii;CCviii)	462
208.	Here he tells of the great battle which was between Argon and Acmat. (CCx;CCviii)- - - - -	463
209.	How Argon was prisoner and[how the barons took counsel that he should be]set free. (CCxi;CCx) - - - - -	464
210.	How Argon was set free. (CCxii;CCxi) - - - - -	464
211.	How Argon had the dominion. (CCxiii;CCxii) - - - - -	465
212.	How Argon caused his uncle Acmat to be killed. (CCxiii;CCxiii) -	466
213.	How the barons do homage to Argon. (CCxv;—) - - - - -	467
214.	How Quiacatu took the dominion after the death of Argon. (CCxvi; CCxiii) - - - - -	467
215.	How Baidu took the dominion after the death of Quiacatu. (CCxvii; CCxv) - - - - -	468
216.	Here he tells of the king Conci who is in tramontaine. (CCxviii; CCxvi) - - - - -	469
217.	Here he tells of the province of darkness. <sup>1</sup> (CCxviii;CCxvii) -	472
218.	Here he tells of the great province of Rosie <sup>2</sup> and of the people. (CCxx;CCxviii) - - - - -	474
219.	Here he tells of the mouth of the Greater Sea. (CCxxi;CCxviii) -	477
220.	Here he tells of the lords of the Tartars of the Sunsetting. (CCxxii; CCxx) - - - - -	477
221.	Here he tells of the war which rose between Ulau and Berca and the battles which were between them. (CCxxiii;CCxxi) - -	478
222.	How Berca and his army goes to meet Ulau. (CCxxiii;CCxxii) -	478
223.	How Ulau speaks to his people. (CCxxv;CCxxiii) - - - - -	479
224.	Here he speaks of the great battle which was between Ulau and Berca. (CCxxvi;CCxxiii) - - - - -	480
225.	Once more about the battle of[U]lau and of Berca. (CCxxvii;CCxxv)	481
226. [3d]	How Berca behaves himself valiantly. (CCxxviii;CCxxvi) - -	482
227.	How Totamongu was lord of the Tartars of the Sunsetting. (CCxviii;CCxxvii) - - - - -	483

<sup>1</sup> ciscurte for oscurte

<sup>2</sup> rome for rosie