

In the Turki collectanea of G. RAQUETTE<sup>1</sup> I note the following Chinese words:

čin-säy, celery, from č'in ts'ai 芹菜.

manto, meat-dumpling, from man-i'ou 饅頭.

čizä, a Chinese foot (measure), from č'i-tse 尺子.

lobo, a long turnip, from lo-po 蘿蔔.

jin, a Chinese pound, from čin 斤.

A few other remarks on Turki words recorded by Le Coq may follow here:

nähäl ("ruby") is apparently Persian lāl (above, p. 575).

There is no reason to question the Persian origin of palas ("cloth, sail"); it is identical with Persian bālās (above, p. 495).

döwä ("hill") is identical with Turkish deve, teve ("camel"); cf. T'oung Pao, 1915, p. 21.

yilpis ("snow-leopard") is identical with Mongol irbis ("panther").
