

No. 876, PEKIN.

Entering the palace grounds, the visitor by ascending one side of the eminence, gets to a fine commanding point overlooking the adjacent plains, and will not fail to observe this small shrine, which being constructed of bronze goes by the appellation of the bronze temple.