

	Page
The Chomo-uchong from a point situated at a short distance S. E. of Kichung-la. Looking West and W. N. W.	352
The Chomo-uchong from a point situated at a short distance N. W. of Kichung-la. Looking W. S. W. and West	352
The valley Chung-sang. Looking S. S. W. from a point N. W., of Kichung-la	352
The valley of Sa-chu at Saka-dsong. Interment of one of my men	352
One of our Camps in Southern Tibet	352
The confluence of the Tsangpo and the Chaktak-tsangpo from a little threshold at Camp 168. The highest peak, Kha, between the two rivers, is seen to the S. 71° W.	352
The confluence of the Tsangpo and the Chaktak-tsangpo from a little threshold at Camp 168 (Continuation to the right of the foregoing photo). Looking N. 75° W. up the valley of the Chaktak-tsangpo	352
The Tsangpo between Namla and Dongbo (Camps 188 and 189). Looking S. 25° E.	360
The Tsangpo at Camp 191. Looking down the river to the S. E.	360
The Tsangpo at Camp 191. Looking up the river to the S. W. (A lama in my boat)	360
The Upper Tsangpo below the confluence of the Kubi-tsangpo and the Chema-yundung	362
Measuring the volume in one of the uppermost branches of the Tsangpo just below the junction of the Kubi-tsangpo and the Chema-yundung	362
Some of my Ladaki servants returning home from Tokchen	362
The green sandstone conglomerate at Nyandi-gompa	372
Pilgrims on the road to Dolma-la	372
The plain of Chang-malung between Camp 243 and Camp 244	382
Valley of the Buptsang-tsangpo	384
In the valley of the Buptsang-tsangpo	384
Dakba-tso on the southern side of Teri-nam-tso. Looking north from Pang-shachen near Camp 410	392
The Teri-nam-tso. Looking N. 25° W. from Pang-shachen near Camp 410	392
Crossing the Soma-tsangpo and the Buptsang-tsangpo	392
Tibetans of Teri-nam-tso	392
River-crossings in the Transhimalaya (Buptsang-tsangpo and Soma-tsangpo)	392
The Buptsang-tsangpo at Tuta (Cp. Sketch Vol. III, p. 352)	396
Views from the hill of Lunkar-gompa. In the background Buptsang-tsangpo and Tarok-tso	396
Natives from the village of Lunkar	396
Chortens below Lunkar-gompa	396
Lunkar-gompa and its neighbourhood. Nr. 6 is taken from the very source of the Indus, looking S. 70° E.	396
Looking N. W. from the Surla Pass	400
The Surla Glaciers from a point south of the Surla (Surla-Kemi-la) Pass. The pyramidal snow peak is seen to the S. 31° W. (Cp. the water colour sketch Vol. III, p. 358)	400
In the Surla Mountains, Transhimalaya	400
The Surla-Kemi-la in the Surla Mountains, Transhimalaya	400
The Governor of Chokchu leaving Selipuk	400
The plain of Selipuk looking N. 60° W.	400
The three to the left are views of Selipuk-gompa, the three to the right are from Nyandi-gompa and its chorten	402
The Tashi Lama	404