

- insistence and military activity in Tibet, 342 et seq., 353, 356; signs the Trade Regulations, 361; the Dalai Lama visits Peking, 383, 385
- Chao, Colonel, the Chinese delegate, 142, 154
- Chao Erh-feng, Chinese Resident for Tibet, 362; defeats the Tibetans at Batang, 371 et seq.; goes to Chiamdo, 388; his conduct impeached, 422
- Chao Erh-hsun, Viceroy at Hankow, 362
- Chefu Convention, 46
- Chiamdo, Chinese military force arrive at, 375; agreement between the Chinese and the Dalai Lama at, 388
- Chigyab Kenpo (Lord Chamberlain), 235, 242
- China: her position and influence in Tibet, 18, 22, 28, 34, 39, 114, 321, 421 et seq.; Tashi Lama's death at Peking, 26; the Nepalese driven back by, 30; her desire to keep foreigners from Tibet, 43 et seq.; Chefu Convention, 46; the Sikkim-Tibet Convention with Great Britain, 50 et seq., 439-441; the boundary difficulty, 58, 59; and Russia, 72, 80; the Burmese Convention, 77; attitude towards the Lhasa Mission, 86 et seq.; protest against the advance to Lhasa, 143, 144; and the negotiations at Lhasa, 263 et seq.; obstructive attitude after the Tibetan Treaty was signed, 342 et seq., 362 et seq.; and the payment of the Tibetan indemnity, 348 et seq.; and the evacuation of the Chumbi Valley, 354 et seq.; Trade Regulations, 359 et seq.; Tibet within her sovereignty, not her suzerainty, 364; puts down Tibetan revolt at Batang, 368 et seq.; reduces Derge and Chiamdo, 374 et seq.; the Dalai Lama visits Peking, 384; Tibetans' fear of, 387 et seq.; Chinese troops in Lhasa, 388 et seq.; deposition of the Dalai Lama, 399 et seq.; convention with Great Britain, 443, 444
- Ching, Prince, describes the Tibetan character, 139
- Chisul, 235
- Chumalhari Mountain, 116, 160, 161
- Chumbi Valley, 133, 139; the march through, 155 et seq.; on the retention of, 256 et seq., 295; evacuation of, 354
- Churchill, Lord Randolph, 47
- Conventions: Chefu, 46; between Great Britain and China, 50, 439, 443; between Great Britain and Tibet, 441; between Great Britain and Russia, 444
- Cooper, Colonel, attack on Tibetan position, 224
- Craster, Captain, death of, 210
- Cromer, Earl of, on the result of the Mission, 325
- Curzon, Viscount, Viceroy of India: his instructions to Major Younghusband, 11, 96, 97, 124, 142; attempts to communicate with the Tibetans, 66, 72; and Nepal, 134; interview with Major Younghusband on his return, 332, 333; newspaper criticisms, 430, 433
- Dalai Lama, the, 5, 48; his dealings with Russia, 67, 74, 320, 377, 378; refusal to negotiate, 139, 140, 184; 204; desires a peaceful settlement, 211; objects to Mission going to Lhasa, 238; gives present of silk, 241; flight from Lhasa on the Mission's approach, 268, 269, 279, 281, 377; journeys to Peking, 380 et seq.; interview with Sir John Jordan, 383, 384; returns to Lhasa, 385, 387; Chinese excesses, 386 et seq.; appeal to the British, 386, 395; thanks Indian Government for their generous treatment, 387; flight from the Chinese at Lhasa, 391; interview with Mr. Bell at Darjiling, 392; arrival at Calcutta, and interview with the Viceroy, 394; returns to Darjiling, 395; deposed by the Chinese, 399 et seq.
- Dane, Sir Louis, Foreign Secretary, 100, 328, 332; appointed British delegate, 360
- Darjiling, 47; scenery and description of, 100-103; the Dalai Lama's flight to, 392
- Deb Judhur, the Bhutanese Chief, his aggressive conduct, 13
- Derge, Chinese reduction of, 374
- Dharm, Raja of Bhutan, friendship for England, 183, 205
- Diaya, Chinese occupation of, 376
- Donchuk-la, frontier pillar at, 59
- Dongste, 183