

- Tang-la, 331
 Tangu, 109
 Tashi Lama, the, and the Bhutanese aggression, 5; letter to Warren Hastings, 5, 6; interview with Bogle, 13 et seq.; character, 15, 316; journey to Peking and death, 26; reincarnation of, 27, 28; sends delegates to Major Younghusband, 123, 125; his reception of Captain O'Connor, 330; and Sven Hedin, 344; visits India, 377
 Tashi Lumpo Monastery, the Abbot of the, interview with Major Younghusband, 125-129
 Tea trade with Tibet, 52
 Teesta River, 104, 105
 Tibetans, the (see also Younghusband, Major): reasons for Indian interference, 1 et seq.; position, 2; religion, 3, 240, 315, et seq.; Bogle's Mission, 4-26; seizure of Kuch Behar, 4; trade with India, 16, 22; Chinese influence, 18, 22, 28, 34, 39, 88, 114; Turner's Mission, 26, 31; Nepalese invasion, 30; communication ceases, 31, 42; Manning's visit to Lhasa, 33-41; fresh efforts to trade with, 42 et seq.; withdrawal of Mission to, 47; aggressiveness of, 47, 49; Sikkim-Tibet Convention between Great Britain and China, 50, 439-441; difficulties of fixing frontier with India, 51, 71, 72; remove frontier pillar, 59; their view of the Treaty, 62, 63, 71; send envoy to Russia, 67 et seq.; negotiations with Russia, 79 et seq.; British Government's views, 84-88; Major Younghusband's Mission to Lhasa, 86 et seq.; their treatment of India, 92; protest against the advance of the Mission, 111 et seq., 125 et seq., 153-156, 164-168, 174; advice of the Nepalese to, 135, 136; shed the first blood, 177, 178; attack the Mission at Gyantse, 187-190; the Karo-la fight, 190; the storming of Palla, 194, 195; further discussions at Phari and Gyantse, 203-206, 209-216; the storming of the Gyantse Jong, 216 et seq.; power of the National Assembly, 235, 236, 240, 244, 245, 268 et seq., 282; and Sikkim, 244; the terms of the Treaty, 251-262, 441-443; the negotiations, 263-288; the Treaty concluded, 289-300; signature of Treaty in the Potala, 301-306; impressions at Lhasa of, 307-321; social habits, 318; attitude of the Chinese to, 321-323, 362-366; Mission returns from Lhasa, 325 et seq.; results of the Mission, 335-341, 415 et seq.; payment of indemnity, 348-354; British evacuation of the Chumbi Valley, 354-359; Trade Regulations, 360, 361, 440; attitude since 1904 of, 367 et seq.; difficulty of direct relations with, 424 et seq.
 Ti-mi-fu, the, 37
 Ting Ling Monastery, 373
 Ti Rimpoche, the Regent of Tibet: negotiations with the Mission, 268 et seq.; his character, 310, 325; and the indemnity, 367
 Tongsa Penlop, Maharaja of Bhutan: interviews with Major Younghusband, 203, 204; his character, 204; negotiations at Gyantse, 209 et seq.; negotiations with the Mission at Lhasa, 263 et seq.; places Bhutan under British Protectorate, 336
 Townley, Mr., British Chargé d'Affaires at Peking, the Chinese and the Tibetan question, 88, 129, 130
 Townsend, Meredith, Asia and Europe, 434
 Trade between Tibet and India, 16, 22, 23, 52, 86 et seq.; new regulations, 360, 361, 440
 Trimpuk Jongpen, the, arrives at Phari, 169; interview with Major Younghusband at Tuna, 170, 204
 Tsamdang Gorge, fight at, 180
 Tsarong Sha-pé. See Ta Lama
 Tse-chen Monastery, 209
 Tuna, Mission at, 160, 162 et seq.; General Macdonald brings more troops to, 173
 Tung-yig-Chembo, the Chief Secretary: interviews with Major Younghusband, 211, 225 et seq.; his bad influence, 241
 Turner, Captain Samuel, 5; Mission to Tibet, 26 et seq., 427; appreciation of his work, 30
 T'u Ssu office abolished, 372
 Victoria, Queen, and the Tibetans, 319
 Waddell, Colonel, Chief Medical Officer and archæologist: his knowledge of Lamaism, 240, 309; collects Tibetan manuscripts, 337