

- Wade, Sir T., British Minister at Peking, 77
- Walker, Lieutenant, his bravery at Gyantse, 194, 195
- Walsh, Mr., Deputy Commissioner at Darjiling, 102; appointed Assistant Commissioner, 152; at Gyantse, 204; and the occupation of the Chumbi Valley, 256; his good work, 309; return to India, 331
- Walton, Captain, ornithologist, 123, 172, 183; at Gyantse, 187; his natural history collections, 337
- Wen, Chinese Assistant Resident at Lhasa, interview with the Dalai Lama, 388, 389
- White, Claude, Political Officer in Sikkim, visits the mart at Yatung, 53; Tibetan disregard of the Treaty, 54 et seq.; the frontier difficulties, 58-60; withdrawal to Gantok, 61, 62; sent to Giagong to reassert British rights, 70 et seq., 120; appointed Joint Commissioner, 87, 88; Mission to Tibet starts, 97; Sikkim and Bhutan, 106; obstruction by the Tibetans, 110, 111; arrives at Khamba Jong, 112; interview with the Lhasa officials, 113, 114; as to advancing to Lhasa during the winter, 149; friendly reception by the Bhutanese, 172, 204, 267, 336; and the indemnity, 282; at Lhasa, 309; the return of the Mission, 328, 329, 331
- Wilton, Mr.: China Consular service, 124; at Gyantse, 187; return of the Mission, 328-331; and the Trade Regulations, 361
- Witte, M., and the Tibetan envoys, 69
- Wood, Lieutenant, Survey Officer, 329
- Wu-tai-shen, 381
- Yamdok Tso Lake, its beauty, 232
- Yatung, trade-mart at, 52, 53, 63, 86
- Younghusband, Major, Resident at Indore, appointed Commissioner, 87, 90; his career and experiences in India, 95, 97; the Viceroy's instructions, 96; arrangements for the Mission, 97-99; leaves Simla, 99; journey to Darjiling, 100-102; leaves Darjiling, 103; journey to Tangu, 104-109; White's interview with the Jongpen of Khamba Jong at Giagong, 110-115; journey to Khamba Jong, 116; interviews with the Chinese and Tibetan delegates, 117 et seq., 131; interview with the Abbot of the Tashi Lumpo Monastery, 125-129; help from the Nepalese, 132, 133; Tibetan dilatoriness and signs of war, 137; returns to Simla to confer with the Indian Government, 138 et seq.; advance decided on, 140, 146; Chinese and Russian protests, 143-146, 201-203; journey through the Teesta Valley, 152; Mission assembled at Gnatong, 153; on the Jelap-la Pass, 154, 155; Tibetan obstruction, 155; arrival at Phari, 157, 159; interviews with Lhasa monks and their demeanour, 159; crossing the Himalayas, 160, 161; at Tuna, 161 et seq.; critical interviews with Lhasa officials, 162 et seq.; the Bhutanese become allies, 170-172; advance continued, 173; a last palaver, 174; first bloodshed, 176-179; fight at the Tsamdang Gorge, 180; arrival at Gyantse, 182; demeanour of the inhabitants, 182; Tibetan attack on the Mission at Gyantse, 187, 188; result of Colonel Brander's fight at the Karo-la, 189, 190, 191; Indian Government sanction the advance to Lhasa, 191, 221; occupation of Palla village, 194, 195; Tibetan attack on Kangma fortified post, 196; returns to Chumbi for consultation, 196-203; interview with the Tongsa Penlop at Phari, 203-207; returns to Gyantse, 208, 209; Tibetan opposition, 209; receives the Ta Lama and other delegates, 211-216; the storming and capture of Gyantse Jong, 217-220; proclamation issued, 222; the fight at Karo-la Pass, 223, 224; arrival at Nagartse, 225; a deputation of the Ta Lama and other delegates, 225-232; crossing of the Kamba-la Pass, 234; occupation of Chaksam, 234; letter from the National Assembly, 235; drowning accident, 237; another interview with Ta Lama and other Tibetan delegates, 238-250; arrival at Lhasa, 251 et seq.; terms of the Treaty, 252-262, 441-443; the negotiations, 263 et seq.; description and impressions of Lhasa, 265, 307 et seq.; the Treaty concluded, 289 et seq.; Treaty signed in the Potala, 301-306; the attitude of the Chinese to the Tibetans, 321-324; the return