

Even the ruins of ancient civilization are beautiful in the clean, graceful shrouds of their interment in the sand. It is only far to the east, in the monotonous wastes of the salt and clay of old Lop-Nor, that one comes to the real "abomination of desolation."