

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

My host, a Sart Beg in official dress, in his house at Yarkand	65
Sarts and Chinese imprisoned for various crimes, chained hand and foot to heavy logs and iron bars and with a board round their necks	68
Pyn, the mandarin at Yarkand	69
An old Chinese temple at Yarkand	70
The interior of an old Chinese temple at Yarkand	71
Gamblers in a churchyard at Yarkand. The woman is holding the iron bar, to which her husband is chained	72
A Chinese gambling table one morning outside the principal temple in Yarkand	73
Children outside the school in the yamen of the Fuguan of Yarkand	76
A group of Afghan merchants in Yarkand	77
A beggar in full dress at Guma	83
The mandarin in Khotan	88
Badsuddin Khan, the former Indian aksakal of Khotan	89
Plan of Khotan, drawn by the author	95
The Indian aksakal of Khotan with Afghan merchants	96
The Tung Ling of Khotan with his two children and some guards	97
Silk weaving in Khotan	98
Carpet weaving in Khotan	99
On the road from the village of Pujiya to Duwa	102
Bazaar square and mosque in Kashgar. Display of scrap metal, top-boots etc.	112
The Shaitai Jang in Kashgar with his two children	113
Chinese cemetery at Kashgar with three large mounds raised over the Chinese and Sarts who fell during the last war	116
Wintry landscape in the immediate neighbourhood of Faizabad	117
A Chinese cavalryman on the way from Maral Bashi to Yangi-Shahr in 10—12 degrees of frost	120
Pounding grain in a hollowed out tree-trunk in the village of Qara Kichin near Maral Bashi	121
Dressing cotton with a harp in the village of Qara Kichin	122
A woman with her children in a village near Maral Bashi	123
View of Maral Bashi from the SE tower	125
The southern gate of Maral Bashi	126
Courtyard of a sarai with animals at Maral Bashi	127
A ruin at the outlet of the Qizil darya from the mountains from the south-east	132
Ruins at the outlet of the Qizil darya from the mountains; from the north-west	133
A ruin at Kelpin, photographed on the inside from the E corner	136
The bed of the river Terek avat between Kelpin and Uch Turfan	137
Crossing the Belnyng Tupese pass	138
The Qoptchak Aj gorge between Kelpin and Uch Turfan	139
Kirghiz women in their camp at the foot of Qizil Tagh	141
Plan of Uch Turfan, drawn by the author	144
The Mazar of the Seven Sisters at Uch Turfan	148
The citadel of an old ruined tower W of Uch Turfan	149
Ruins of an octagonal tower built of unbaked bricks, E of Aqyar	158
Ruins of a tower on the northern spur of Patlama tagh, near the bank of the Taushqan darya	159
The Taotai in Aqsu	160
The entrance to the Sart town of Aqsu	161
A plough ready for removal after the day's work	164
Goods being weighed on very primitive scales	165
A ferry on the Aqsu darya	167
The Djentai in Aqsu	170
The Taotai, Djentai, Tifanguan and the author in Aqsu	171