

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

My yigit, a Kalmuk of the Surgan summun, mounted	233
An eagle trained for hunting, placed as a guard of honour outside my yurt	234
Kirghiz women at work	235
Two Kirghiz women of quality in front of a stand, on which wood is dried	236
A block of stone with a human face at the outlet of the river Aghias from the mountains	237
Numgan riding across the river Aghias	238
Stone with inscriptions at Kelsu-su	239
The ascent from the valley of the Aghias	247
The arrival of Nasumbatoff and his troops at my camp	248
Kalmuk soldiers in my camp	249
A Kalmuk dance	250
Two Kirghiz musicians	251
Kalmuks bathing before being anthropologically measured	252
Old Kalmuk, Surgan summun	253
Kirghiz horses grazing near the river Tekes	256
Kirghiz women offering refreshments	257
Two Kalmuk women (Durban summun) and a baby with its head fixed to a board. Little Dshirgalan	262
The bridge across the Great Dshirgalan	263
A Kirghiz bride with her dowry	267
The mother of the Khan of the Torguts at Yulduz in her yurt	270
The mother of the Khan of the Torguts at Yulduz in her yurt	271
The oldest lama of the Torguts in his yurt	273
Plan of Qarashahr, drawn by the author	290
A ruin south of Qarashahr	293
Plan of Toqsun, drawn by the author	300
A Chinese memorial stone with inscriptions near Pai-yang-ho sarai	303
Plan of Urumchi, drawn by the author	306
The Njetai at Urumchi	310
The Djifu Wang and a less important mandarin at Urumchi	311
The Fantai and Njetai arriving in litters to call on the author at Urumchi	314
Prince Lanj at his writing-table at Urumchi	315
Prince Lanj in his garden at Urumchi	316
The mint and its staff at Urumchi	317
The elder son of the Njetai at Urumchi	319
View of the village of Lavtai, destroyed during the Dungan revolt	331
Temple with lions and incense burner of cast-iron near the southern gate at Tjimusa	332
Old carved stone in the courtyard of the temple I tchiän fu tung miao, SW of Tjimusa	333
Plan of Kucheng, drawn by the author	337
The Tchengje Fang, commander of a tchi, surrounded by his men at Kucheng	340
A group of Sarts on the primitive balcony of the author's host at Kucheng	341
Plan of Turfan, drawn by the author	351
A drummer giving the signal for a manoeuvre at Turfan	354
Manoeuvres at Turfan. The battalion performing a march in two winding rows	355
Manoeuvres at Turfan. Rifle fire	356
Manoeuvres at Turfan. Fencing between N.C.O's, bearing standards, who run forward from the ranks	357
Ahror Khan, the Russian aksakal at Turfan, with servants and Sart visitors	358
The tall tower of Minar metchet near the ruined town of Eski Turpan	359
The Appag Khoja mosque near Turfan	360
Two young Sart women	365