

the sky prevails. Suddenly a dome-shaped summit flashes up in the middle of the outline of the group, and is conspicuous from its intensely silver-white brilliance, which makes everything else seem dull—ah! that is the moon rising up full and bright, driving the rosy hues of evening before it, and soaring in serene splendour through the dark blue vault of heaven.