PART II. THE ARCHEOLOGICAL EXCAVATIONS IN ANAU AND OLD MERV. HUBERT SCHMIDT.

	PAGE
CHAPTER VI. THE ARCHEOLOGICAL EXCAVATIONS AT ANAU.....	83-120
Excavations at North Kurgan.....	83-104
Preliminary examination.....	83
Method and arrangement of work.....	84-86
The work and finds at the separate localities on North Kurgan.....	87
Terrace I.....	87
Walls and rooms; pivotal door-stones; bake-ovens; fireplaces.....	88
Skeletons of children buried in "contracted position" and burial gifts; lapis lazuli.....	89
Early recognition of stratigraphic distinctions in pottery, varieties of gray and red monochrome above (group x) and coarse and fine painted (group y) below	89-91
Terraces IV and V.....	91
Stratigraphic succession in Terraces IV and V.....	93-95
Determined by the stratigraphic distribution of skeletons and pottery.....	93-94
Painted pottery in the upper strata (group z).....	94
Polychrome pottery in upper strata (group v).....	95
Determination of a change from an older to a younger different culture at 25 feet above the plain, the older one characterized by pottery group y , the younger by groups x , z , v	95
Terrace II.....	95-98
Copper in the older culture.....	97
Terrace III.....	98
Terrace VI.....	99
Terrace VII.....	100
West Digging.....	100
North Digging: Culture-strata down to 24.5 feet below level of plain: skeleton in "contracted position" at -11 feet; painted pottery of group y extends to bottom strata, but in depth associated with a distinct painted variety (group m).....	101
South Shaft.....	101
West Shaft: shows wide extent of strata of the older culture with pottery of group y	101
Komorof's Trench: East and West Galleries; East and West Pits.....	102-103
Definite proof that the people of the older culture also buried children within their dwellings.....	103
Other finds; character of culture; relative chronology.....	103-104
The excavations at the South Kurgan.....	104-120
General summary and method.....	104-106
Two successive cultures evident.....	105
Excavations and finds at different localities.....	106
Upper Digging.....	106
Five feet of upper culture-strata.....	106
Wheel-made pottery of upper culture (group 1) and iron knife.....	106
Superior hand-made pottery (group 2) in mixed strata below upper culture...	108
Below 37 feet 7 inches above level of plain only wheel-made pottery of red, gray and whitish-green varieties (groups 3-5) characterizes the older culture of South Kurgan.....	108
Copper dagger.....	108
Razor and dagger of copper.....	109
Terrace A belongs in mixed talus débris.....	110
Copper three-edged arrow-point and iron sickle.....	110
Outer Digging. The two cultures and the intermediate "mixed" zone represented.	110
Terrace B.....	112-118
Children buried in houses.....	112
Three-faced seal showing man, lion, and griffin; pivotal door-stones.....	112
"Clay chest".....	113, 114
Stratigraphic discussion.....	115, 116
