

CONTENTS.

XI

PAGE.

| | |
|---|----------|
| CHAPTER VII. RESULTS.—Continued. | |
| Analytical description of the finds from North and South Kurgans.—Continued. | |
| Pottery of South Kurgan.—Continued. | |
| Pottery from the upper strata, Culture IV..... | 145-149 |
| Wheel-made pottery..... | 146-149 |
| Hand-made pottery..... | 149 |
| The minor antiquities of metal, bone, clay, stone, and faience of both kurgans..... | 149-173 |
| Copper ornaments from middle and lower strata of North Kurgan, Culture I..... | 150 |
| Copper objects from upper strata of North Kurgan, Culture II..... | 151 |
| Copper ornaments and implements from lower and middle strata of South Kurgan, Cul- ture III..... | 151-155 |
| Copper from upper strata of South Kurgan, Culture IV..... | 155-157 |
| Lead from North Kurgan..... | 157 |
| Ornaments of stone, clay, and faience (beads, etc.): | |
| From lower and middle strata of North Kurgan, Culture I..... | 157 |
| From upper strata of North Kurgan, Culture II..... | 158 |
| From middle and lower strata of South Kurgan, Culture III..... | 159, 160 |
| From upper strata of South Kurgan, Culture IV..... | 160 |
| Of uncertain position in South Kurgan..... | 162 |
| Useful objects of stone, clay, and bone from Cultures I and II, North Kurgan (whorls, flints, mace-heads, etc.)..... | 163-166 |
| From Culture III, South Kurgan (whorls, flints, arrow-heads, mace-heads, sling- stones, seals, and stamps, vessels of marble and alabaster)..... | 166-170 |
| From Culture IV, South Kurgan (whorls, etc.)..... | 170 |
| Images of terra-cotta, Culture III..... | 171-172 |
| Fragments of glazed pottery in South Kurgan..... | 173 |
| CHAPTER VIII. RESULTS. | |
| Comparative summary of the four cultures..... | 175-177 |
| CHAPTER IX. CONCLUDING REMARKS. | 179-186 |
| Decoration of Anau pottery wholly different from old European systems..... | 179 |
| The only possible comparison would be with that of lowest strata at Susa..... | 179 |
| Painting of pottery an essential characteristic of oldest cultures of Turkestan and Persia, which were probably not far different in age..... | 179 |
| Comparison of Anau with ancient Europe in regard to elements of culture and social peculiarities | 179 |
| Burial in contracted position in Europe, Africa, and Palestine..... | 180 |
| Obsidian arrow-point in Culture III probably from the Caucasus..... | 181 |
| Analogies in the ornamental copper pins..... | 181 |
| The sickle in Culture III has analogous forms only in VI city of Troja..... | 182 |
| A knife-blade in Culture III resembles one in Altai-Ural bronze age..... | 182 |
| Insufficiency of the established equations for chronological determinations..... | 182 |
| The seal with a man, a lion, and a griffin clearly from Western Asia..... | 182 |
| The three-edged copper arrow-point of Culture IV..... | 183 |
| Its analogies in Europe, Asia, and Egypt..... | 183-186 |
| Culture IV approximately between 1000 and 500 b. c..... | 186 |
| Culture III ended by 1000 b. c..... | 186 |
| Its brilliant period corresponds with flourishing period of Mycenean culture or earlier..... | 186 |
| Its beginning as yet undatable..... | 186 |
| The cultures of North Kurgan still older..... | 186 |
| Beginning of Culture I in III millennium b. c..... | 186 |
| Footnote by R. P. on the Chronology of Anau..... | 186 |
| CHAPTER X. THE EXCAVATIONS IN GHIAUR KALA (OLD MERV). | 187-201 |
| General summary, description of site..... | 187 |
| Upper Digging, on the Citadel..... | 188-192 |
| Lower Digging and Outer Digging I..... | 192 |
| Outer Digging II and Galleries I to III..... | 193 |