

- Kubera, Hindu god of wealth, 227
 Kublai, Emperor, 35, 250
 Kucha, oasis, 11, 279, 287; remains at, 281-283; language spoken at, 282
 Kuchean or Tokhari manuscripts, 215
 Kulja, Russian occupation of, 36
 Kumedh, 293
 Kum-kuduk, well of, 162
 Kum-tagh, 165
 Kumtura, cave shrines of, 282
 K'un-lun range, 2, 4, 6-9, 11, 24, 54, 72, 110, 174, 271, 272, 289; foothills of, 50; glaciers of, 51-53; difficulties in finding an old route across, 53
 Kun-tigmaz, 290, 291
 Kuruk-darya (the 'Dry River'), 14, 134, 150, 151, 154, 156, 158, 248, 275; explorations in the dried-up delta of, 147-149; date of the abandonment of the site, 149; riverine changes in the terminal branches, 166; mapping its course, 273
 Kuruk-tagh ('Dry Mountains'), 9, 10, 137, 142, 151, 157, 165, 256, 260, 270; explorations and survey work in, 260, 271-277
 Kushana or Indo-Scythian princes, 91, 93
 Kustana, or Khotan, 92
 Kuvera, see Vaisravana
- Lacquer-ware fragments found, 100
 Ladak, 6, 53
 Lajirkh, 326
 Lal Singh, Rai Bahadur, 156, 157, 245, 251, 260, 271-273, 280, 289
 Langar pass, 301, 302, 308
 Leather, embroidered, found, 100; armour made from, 114
 Le Coq, Professor von, 260, 261, 263, 282, 285
 Lhasa, 8
 Liang-chou, 19
 Liao Ta-lo-ye, magistrate, 130
 Li Kuang-li, 22
 Limes, its technical meaning, 178; system of the Roman Empire, 177; ancient Chinese border-wall, see Old Wall
 Li-sieh, 67
 Little Pamir Lake, 46
 Lóczy, Professor de, 193
 Lokapalas, in Buddhist paintings, 226-228; wooden statuette of, 279
 Lop-likes, semi-nomadic herdsmen and fishermen, 109, 146
 Lop-nor desert, 4, 109, 116, 129, 274; the dried-up salt-encrusted sea-bed, 8, 14, 15, 22, 109, 134, 275; the marshes, 6, 8, 109, 110, 130, 131, 134; Chinese trade route through, 25, 26, 140, 143; older forms of the local name, 115; the author's journey across, 131-136; wind erosion in, 133, 137, 142; tracking the ancient route across the dried-up Lop Sea, 145-162; traversing Marco Polo's route from the Lop-nor marshes to Tun-huang, 163-192; Marco Polo's description of the 'Desert of Lop', 164. See also Lou-lan; Shan-shan
 Lorimer, Miss F., 218
 Lou-lan, or Lop-nor, 14, 15, 20, 248, 271; ruins at and around, 14, 27, 110, 275; the journey from Charkhlik to, 129-136; excavations and discoveries at, 136-144; proof of the site of the station designated Lou-lan, 140; the Chinese trade route, 140, 143, 145, 276; the indigenous designation of the locality was Kroraina, 141; water carried to the site by the Kuruk-darya, 149-151; further explorations and discoveries, 150; finds at the ancient burial-grounds near, 151, 273
 Lowarai pass, 41
 Lun-t'ai, 281
 Lu Ting-shih, 169
- Macartney, Sir George, 48, 147, 286
 Maës Titianus, 26, 292
 Mahasthama, Bodhisattva, 233, 236
 Mahayana Buddhism, 233; pictorial art of, 219
 Malakand pass, 40
 Manchu dynasty, 35
 Manichaeic texts, from the Caves of the Thousand Buddhas, 214
 Manichaeans, Turkish version of the confession prayer of, 216
 Manichaeism, 33, 214, 259
 Manjusri, represented in Buddhist painting, 225, 230, 234, 236
 Manuscripts, see Brahmi; Chinese; Kharoshthi; Khotanese; Kuchean; Manichaeic; Runic Turkish; Sanskrit; Sogdian; Syriac; Turkish; Uigur
 Mao-mei, oasis, 245, 247, 250-252
 Marakanda, 330
 Maral-bashi, 284; ruins near, 285
 Marco Polo, see Polo, Marco
 Marghilan, 294
 Marinus of Tyre, 26, 127, 292, 295
 Marjanai pass, 298
 Markan-su, 290
 Maspero, Professor, 267
 Mastuj, 42
 Mastuj, river, 43