

us. Our poor baggage animals needed it badly; for the fatigues of the previous marches had almost exhausted them, and the bleak exposed plain over 12,000 feet above the sea, on which the snow had only just melted, offered neither grazing nor shelter.