

of dry foliage and then a couple of big trees ablaze, provided towards midnight a grand illumination at imminent risk to tents and baggage. Luckily there were plenty of hands ready to shovel sand and stop the conflagration from spreading.