

Saidabád Sarái, 9 miles from Bhímbar.

Naushéra, 33° 7'; 74° 12'.

Route

from BHÍMBAR to SIALKÓT,

see No. 188.

Route No. 26.

From BHÍMBAR (Pānjáb) to ÚRI (Kashmír).

A secondary route, passable for horses.

Literature: Jacquemont's Journal, Vol. III., pp. 164-73.—
Year-book of the Pānjáb for 1854, part IV., p. 245-7.

Maps: Cunningham's Pānjáb and Western Himálaya.—
Waugh and Thuillier's Pānjáb and adjoining countries.

Bhímbar, 32° 59'; 74° 0'—Cross the Adaták
pass (road in parts difficult).

Saidabád Sarái, 9 miles from Bhímbar—
Kambír fort.

Dharamsála, 15 miles from Saidabád—Kohi-rátti, on the Ban river, 6 miles from Dharam-sála (road good, almost level).

Dhúna, 6 miles from Kohirátti. No dharam-sála; supplies scarce, but fish in abundance—Kótti (6,010 ft.), 3 miles from Dhúna, with a bángalo—Sámbrí.

Séra, 10 miles from Kótti, with a bángalo (road between Kótti and Séra occasionally bad and difficult)—Cross the Main Dal river (generally very difficult to be crossed)—Cross the Pūch river by bridge.

Pūch (3,395 ft.), 9 miles from Séra—Ascend along the Betári river, which has to be crossed on the way to Kahúta four times, the last time over a wooden bridge—Māngiál—Devár—Vóchi —Nári.

Kahúta (430 ft.), 6½ miles from Pūch—Ascend to the Pūch pass (road rather bad, narrow, and occasionally difficult)—Aliabád

Sarái (9,700 ft.), 6½ miles from Kahúta—Cross the Pūch pass (8,500 ft.).

Haidarabád Sarái, 6 miles from Aliabád
(a long march)—Sillikót—Balkót.

Úri, 34° 6'; 73° 56', on the left bank of the Jhílum river (level of the river 3,952 ft.).

Route No. 27.

From BIJNÁTH (Chámiba) to BÁRA BÁNGHAL (Chámiba).

A secondary route, impassable for horses.

Maps: Blagrave, Becher, and Hutchinson's Julundhur Dooab.

Bijnáth, 32° 3'.1; 76° 38'.9♁; 3,357 ft.—
Súnsal (4,457 ft.), 4 miles from Bijnáth.

Deól, or Devál (4,240 ft.), with a saline spring.

Prē—Cross the Yáre, or Yára pass.

△ Tsánni, on the northern foot of the Yáre
pass.

Síndi.

Kanār, on the Rávi river.

Bára Bánghal, 32° 18'; 76° 43'; 8,535 ft., on the right bank of the Rávi river.

Route No. 28.

From BIJNÁTH (Chámiba) to KÁNGRA (Chámiba).

A principal route, passable for horses.

Maps: Indian Atlas, sheet 47 (second edition).

Bijnáth, 32° 3'.1; 76° 38'.9♁; 3,357 ft.—
Pipróli—Andríta.

Barvární (3,198 ft.)—Sála—Parór—Dhórni.

Nagróti (2,816 ft.)—Kóli—Újen.

Kángra, 32° 5'.2; 76° 14'.4♁; 2,553 ft.
