

right bank of the Dáuli river—Gárpa—△ Shínkóla—Dúngari.

Jílam (9,460 ft.), 1 mile from the right bank of the Dáuli river (on a hill) — Cross the Pángti (a small river) — Kósa — Cross the Dáuli river by a bridge — Malári (10,290 ft.), near the left bank of the Dáuli river — Cross the Gínti river by a sánga-bridge called Burás — Kurkúti, on the right bank of the Dáuli river — Cross the Dáuli river by a sánga-bridge called Rádi — Bámpa — Gumsáli.

Níti, 30° 48'; 79° 34'; 11,464 ft., on the left bank of the Dáuli river. (An ordinary kúli stage from Jílam.)

Route

from TAPUBÁN to SÓMESAR,

see No. 199.

Route No. 224.

From THÁNNO (Gärhvál) to KIDARKÁNTA (Gärhvál).

A secondary route, passable for horses.

Literature: Jacquemont's Journal, Vol. II., pp. 114-32.

Maps: Indian Atlas, sheet 47 (second edition).

Thánno, 30° 50'; 78° 16'; 4,097 ft., on the right bank of the Jámna river — Nagán, near the left bank of the Budiár river — Ascend the Budiár valley — Cross the Budiár valley — Gúngtar.

Kóti, on the right bank of the Budiár river — Bunchanegáũ — Choptargáũ — Kósron.

Sanól, near the left bank of the Budiár river — Cross a river — Díngr — Cháklo.

Saráõ, the highest village of the Budiár valley — Ascent.

Kidarkánta Peak, 31° 1'.4; 78° 9'.4; 12,430 ft., 6 hours' march from Saráõ.

Route

from TÁSHKEND to ŌSH,

see No. 163.

Route

from TÍKAR to DÉRA,

see No. 59.

Route

from TÍKAR to KÁNDÁ,

see No. 84.

Route No. 225.

From TÍKAR (Símla) to SÍMLA (Símla).

There are three different routes, each along a good made road.

Maps: Indian Atlas, sheet 47 (second edition).

A.

Tíkar to Símla, by Dägshái.

Tíkar, 31° 11'; 77° 39'; 7,735 ft. — Léchog — Kálánti.

Dägshái, a military station (6,025 ft.) — Cross the Kákar nálah — Ningálla (road till here bad; but hence to Símla really magnificent) — Ánji — Sólén, with a bángalo — Bēr — Mansár — Chókri — Dēt — Gánda — Cross a small pass — Diñ.

Kiári, with a bángalo (very good; rather a long march from Dägshái to Kiári — Cross two small passes (road beautiful).

Símla, 31° 6'.2; 77° 9'.4; 7,156 ft. (church); hôtel and club. (An easy stage.)