

- Mahagāū, in the Kónkan, Lat. 19°, Long. 72° مهاگانو Hind.
 “The great village.” The same name in the Nizám’s territory, Lat. 20°, Long. 78°, and in Berár, Lat. 20°, Long. 80°.
- Mahamaláipur, Lat. 12°, Long. 80° مهاملی پور Tamul. Hind.
 “The town of the great mountain.” Another form of this name is Mahabalipuram.
- Mahanádi, a river in Oríssa, Lat. 20°, Long. 82° مهاندي Hind.
 “The great river.”
- Mahapántha, a peak in Gārhvāl महापन्थ Sanskr.
 “The great road (to heaven).” The name refers to the celebrated temple of pilgrimage at Kídernath, and to the difficulty and danger attending the access to the same. The peak is more generally known by the name of Kídernath peak.
- Maharajdúrg, or Maharajdrúg, in Maissúr, Lat. 12°, Long. 75° مهاراج درگ Hind.
 “Fort of the great king.”
 Anal. Maharaj-gánj, Lat. 25°, Long. 82°, Lat. 25°, Long. 87°, Lat. 27°, Long. 83°; Maharájpur, Lat. 26°, Long. 78°, Lat. 26°, Long. 80°; Mahasíngpur, Lat. 27°, Long. 78° (singh, lion, is often an epithet of kings).
- Mahavelligánga, a river in Ceylon, Lat. 7°, Long. 81° Singhal.
 “The great sand river.”
- Mahbubgánj, in Audh, Lat. 26°, Long. 82° محبوب گنج Arab. Hind.
 “Mahbúb’s market.” Mahbúb, beloved, seems to be here a personal name.
- Mahendargánj, in Bengál, Lat. 25°, Long. 89° مهیندر گنج Hind.
 “Great Indra’s market.”
- Máhe Súmdo, in Kámáon, Lat. 30°, Long. 79° मा'हे'गसुम'मर्दे ma-he-gsum-mdo. Tib.
 “The Máhe’s Trivium.” Ma-he, a kind of buffalo; gsum, three; mdo, place.
 This is the name of the confluence of the Loáka and Gírthi rivers. Compare Dógsum. Máhe, we were told, is the name of a species of wild animals (which come here to drink), but we could not get it properly described. The dictionaries translate it as being a kind of buffalo.
- Mahés, in Bāndelkhánd, Lat. 23°, Long. 80° महेस Hind.
 “The great Lord.” Abbreviated from the Sanskr. Mahésa, a name of Síva.
 Anal. Mahéssar (from Mahésvara), in Málva, Lat. 21°, Long. 75°. The ss is an assimilation of s and v.